1. [] held discussions with the DD/S&T Training Officer last week regarding our preparation of a DD/S&T Handbook for use particularly in the IPC. He was advised that at present the offices of the DD/S&T are undergoing reorganization and it was not deemed advisable to proceed with a handbook at this time. The Office of Computer Services, Office of Research and Development, and the Special Projects Staff are the offices undergoing change. The Special Projects Staff is to become the Office of Special Projects. It is also possible that there may be a minor reorganization of the Office of Scientific Intelligence. A copy of the DCS Handbook was given to the DD/S&T Training Officer who thought that at some future date they would want to participate in the preparation of a handbook. During the discussions it was learned that [] Chief, Special Projects Staff had resigned and was replaced by []. Dr. Whelan, Director of DD/S&T, will also be leaving the Agency in the future (no date specified). He stated that he originally came to the Agency for three years with the option of remaining a fourth year; his three years were completed 1 June 1965. His replacement is to be on board 60 days before he leaves the Agency.

2. The last of the almost-back-to-back Intelligence Techniques Courses finished on Friday, and we now look forward to 25 October as the beginning of the Big Four Program. The support effort for the new program, such as rooms, publications, projectors, and carts, will be larger than for the previous one; and steps have been taken to gather in the needed resources. The staff members have been reorganized into four teams instead of the usual three, and the leaders of Sections I through IV are []

3. On Friday [] spoke in the Attache Course at DIS on the strategic intelligence process. As usual the question period surfaced interest in how CIA recruits its professional officers. Given the fact that the questioners are attaches, one wonders about the origins of such questions. Just professional interest?

25X1A and to [] who has returned to ORR, as an assistant to chief of the Military-Economic Research Area.

5. [] met today with [] of the Office 25X1A of Security to review a draft of part of his book and to review his plans for completing this book. [] has a research 25X1A grant from Brookings Institution to write this book, which deals with sources of information for security investigators. He utilized our text on research planning in writing the terms of reference for this book and has checked with us as his work has progressed.

6. The Intermediate Writing Workshop began today with five students enrolled; Intelligence Research (Map and Photo Interpretation) started today with 13 students.

1. Preparation for IOC #79

In completing preparations for IOC #79 beginning 13 September, a revision has now been made of the Staff Paper on "The Organization of CIA". This updates the last of the IOF Staff Papers which are made available to the IO students.

Room 803 has been made ready for 61 students--the largest IO class since the move to Glebe Road in 1963.

2. Special Lectures and Briefings

25X1A

a. On 8 September 1965 at the Defense Intelligence School in Anacostia, [] briefed a new class of 70 attache students and Defense Intelligence School students on the National Security Structure, emphasizing the Agency's responsibilities at the NSC and intelligence community levels.

25X1A

b. On 9 September, [] lectured informally on CIA's role in the government structure to a group of about 20 AID Management Interns at New State.

25X1A

c. On 10 September, [] lectured on "Organization, Mission, and Functions of CIA" to a group of 70 attache students and Defense Intelligence School students at the Defense Intelligence School at Anacostia.

25X1A

d. On 7 September, [] briefed individually one of a series of scientists whom DDS&T is using

A one-hour broad brush treatment of the intelligence community and CIA was given in the presence of the CIA case officer at a local motel. Both seemed satisfied with the briefing.

Other such briefings will undoubtedly be forthcoming.

[] expressed their thanks to IOF and the latter indicated his desire to be a candidate for our next IR or IO courses.

3. Special Presentation at Newport, R.I.

Chief, IOF, willingly interrupted his New England vacation to lecture to a group of 119 Naval Reserve Officers at the Naval Justice School, Newport, R.I. on 31 August on "The Role of Intelligence Today". This group, mostly lawyers, was one of the most responsive and enthusiastic I have met, and the "Navy treatment" of guest speakers was at its usual high level. B

Captain Paul McEntire, USN, Deputy Commandant of the Naval Justice School, who served as my escort, had been a friend and classmate of Admiral Raborn at the Naval War College, and had nothing but the highest praise for our new Director.

4. CT Orientation

The draft schedule for the course beginning on 11 October has been completed, and the DDP portions of the course coordinated with Operations School and [] personnel.
